

Youth Psychosocial Services

DEFINITION

Youth Psychosocial Services provide an interdisciplinary, psychoeducational, and therapeutic program to engage youth in a variety of cognitive, physical, and social activities appropriate to their needs, interests, and abilities in order to promote healthy development.

Many youth who benefit from youth psychosocial services have complex needs, requiring service planning with multiple service sectors. In order to meet these needs many programs use the wraparound approach of service planning to provide intensive, individualized care with the goal of maintaining the youth in the home and the community, or the appropriate least restrictive setting. An agency may engage in a wraparound approach without being a wraparound program, however there are standards that speak to those specific programs (specifically 5.03, 5.04, 5.05). The aim of these programs is to engage the youth, family, and all service providers to develop and implement a plan with shared goals and outcomes. The main effort of these programs may not be to provide direct service, but they still fall under the umbrella of youth psychosocial programs and benefit from these standards. For programs that offer solely wraparound services, documentation of the other services to which youth are connected will suffice.

Research Note: A trauma-informed approach is one that involves recognizing signs and symptoms of trauma, and responding by emphasizing/considering the following during service-delivery:

- safety;
- trustworthiness and transparency;
- peer support;
- collaboration and mutuality;
- empowerment, voice, and choice; and
- cultural, historical, and gender issues.

Research Note: Best practices for Wraparound services emphasize utilization of the Wraparound Fidelity Index for quality assurance and fidelity monitoring.

Note: The term 'youth' refers to individuals between the ages of 3 and 21 whose developmental needs can be met through engagement in a psychosocial rehabilitation program and who have a primary caregiver.

Note: The phrase 'voice and choice' is used throughout this section and

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

refers to the youth's ability to be given decision making power over their treatment.

Note: While addressing the needs of the youth is the primary goal of youth psychosocial rehabilitation programs, oftentimes it is essential to provide support for the family and engage them in services as well. Each youth defines "family" differently, whether it be blood relatives, primary caregivers, resource families, adoptive families, extended family members, significant others, peer groups or other family-like relationships. Agencies should work with the youth to understand their definition of "family" in order for youth to develop and sustain permanent, lifelong connections.

Note: Standards 5.04, 5.05, and 5.06 are for Wraparound-specific programs only.

Note: Please see YPS Reference List for a list of resources that informed the development of these standards.

Self-Study Evidence

- Provide an individual overview of each program being accredited under this section. The overview should describe:
 - a. the program's approach to delivering services;
 - b. eligibility criteria;
 - c. any unique or special services provided to specific populations; and
 - d. major funding streams.
- If elements of the service (e.g., assessments) are provided by contract with outside programs or through participation in a formal, coordinated, service delivery system, provide a list that identifies the providers and the service components for which they are responsible. Do not include services provided by referral.
- Provide any other information you would like the peer review team to know about these programs.
- A demographic profile of the youth served by the programs being reviewed under this service section with percentages representing the following:
 - a. racial and ethnic characteristics;
 - b. gender/gender identity;
 - c. age;
 - d. presence of mental health and emotional/behavioral conditions;

Youth Psychosocial Services

PA-YPS 1: Service Philosophy, Modalities, and Interventions

The service philosophy:

- a. sets forth a logical approach for how program activities and interventions will meet the needs of youth;
- b. ensures that services are youth-guided, family-driven, culturally and linguistically competent, and trauma-informed;
- c. guides the implementation and development of program activities and services based on the best available evidence of effectiveness; and
- d. outlines the service modalities and interventions that personnel may employ.

Interpretation: A program model or logic model can be a useful tool to help staff think systematically about how the program can make a measurable difference by drawing a clear connection between the service population's needs, available resources, program activities and interventions, program outputs, and desired outcomes.

Research Note: Regarding element b, agencies that are family-driven empower, educate, engage, and promote voice and choice of families. Offering youth decision-making power in their treatment leads to greater feelings of involvement and investment in their treatment.

Research Note: The literature supports building healthy relationships between youth and adults in their life, which is associated with resiliency and modifying the negative impact of future adversity.

Rating Indicators

1) Full Implementation, Outstanding Performance

A rating of (1) indicates that the agency's practices fully meet the standard and reflect a high level of capacity.Â Â

- All elements or requirements outlined in the standard are evident in practice, with rare or no exceptions;Â exceptions do not impact service quality or agencyÂ performance.Â

2) Substantial Implementation, Good Performance

A rating of (2) indicates that an agency's infrastructure and practices are basically sound but there is room for improvement.Â

- The majority of the standards requirements have been met and the basic framework required by the standard has been implemented.Â Â

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

- Minor inconsistencies and not yet fully developed practices are noted; however, these do not significantly impact service quality or agency performance.

3) Partial Implementation, Concerning Performance

A rating of (3) indicates that the agency's observed infrastructure and/or practices require significant improvement.

- The agency has not implemented the basic framework of the standard but instead has in place only part of this framework.
- Omissions or exceptions to the practices outlined in the standard occur regularly, or practices are implemented in a cursory or haphazard manner.
- Service quality or agency functioning may be compromised.
- Capacity is at a basic level.

4) Unsatisfactory Implementation or Performance

A rating of (4) indicates that implementation of the standard is minimal or there is no evidence of implementation at all.

- The agency's observed service delivery infrastructure and practices are weak or non-existent; or show signs of neglect, stagnation, or deterioration.

Youth Psychosocial Services

PA-YPS 1.01

The program is guided by a philosophy that provides a logical basis for the services and support to be delivered to youth in a trauma-informed and culturally and linguistically competent manner, based on program goals and the best available evidence of service effectiveness.

(FP) PA-YPS 1.02

Prior to providing any therapeutic interventions, the agency:

- a. explains any benefits, risks, side effects, and alternatives to the youth or a primary caregiver;
- b. obtains the written, informed consent of the individual and his/her primary caregiver;
- c. ensures that personnel receive sufficient training, and/or certification when it is available; and
- d. monitors the use and effectiveness of such interventions.

Interpretation: Agencies that choose to engage in modalities or interventions that do not have an established evidence base should ensure that practices do not cause physical or psychological harm by demonstrating in their procedures that they have acknowledged the potential risks of implementing such methods and subsequently taken appropriate measures to minimize risks.

(FP) PA-YPS 1.03

Agency policy prohibits:

- a. corporal punishment;
- b. the use of aversive stimuli;
- c. interventions that involve withholding nutrition or hydration, or that inflict physical or psychological pain;
- d. the use of demeaning, shaming, or degrading language or activities;
- e. forced physical exercise to eliminate behaviors;
- f. unwarranted use of invasive procedures or activities as a disciplinary action;
- g. punitive work assignments;
- h. punishment by peers; and
- i. group punishment or discipline for individual behavior.

PA-YPS 2.02

The agency provides or recommends the most appropriate and least restrictive or intrusive service alternative for the youth.

PA-YPS 2.03

Prompt, responsive intake practices:

- a. are culturally responsive;
- b. are trauma-informed;
- c. ensure equitable treatment;
- d. give priority to urgent needs and emergency situations;
- e. support timely initiation of services; and
- f. provide for placement on a waiting list, if applicable.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

Interpretation: Vulnerable populations, such as youth that are lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and questioning (LGBTQ), are at high risk of violence and harassment. The agency should ensure these youth are safe and welcomed by staff. To ensure that transgender youth are treated with respect and feel safe, intake forms and procedures should allow individuals to self-identify their gender as well as their first name and preferred pronouns.

PA-YPS 2.04

Youth who cannot be served, or cannot be served promptly, are referred and connected to appropriate resources.

Interpretation: When it is not possible to directly connect youth to services, documentation of such and the reason why is provided in the case record, including why the agency organizations is unable to connect them to services (for example, this may occur when youth are moved by the state).

NA The agency accepts all clients.

PA-YPS 2.05

During intake, the agency gathers information to identify critical service needs and/or determine when a more intensive service is necessary, including:

- a. personal and identifying information;
- b. developmental history;
- c. health status and mental status, including emergency health needs;
- d. educational status, including enrollment in early childhood education or school; and
- e. safety concerns, including imminent danger or risk of future harm.

Interpretation: Agencies may respond to identified suicide risk by connecting youth to more intensive services; facilitating the development of a safety and/or crisis plan; or contacting emergency responders, 24-hour mobile crisis teams, emergency crisis intervention services, crisis stabilization, or 24-hour crisis hotlines, as appropriate.

PA-YPS 2.06

The agency defines in writing:

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

- a. eligibility criteria, including age, developmental stage, and custodial status;
- b. scope of services and supports, special areas of expertise and range of behavioral/emotional concerns addressed;
- c. opportunities for active family participation and support; and
- d. opportunities for active participation in community activities.

Research Note: The literature indicates the more information youth and their families receive during screening and intake, the more likely it is they will remain engaged in the services.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

PA-YPS 3: Assessment

Youth participate in a comprehensive, individualized, strengths-based, family-focused, culturally responsive assessment that evaluates their cognitive, language, motor, behavioral, and social-emotional development.

Interpretation: The Assessment Matrix - Private, Public, Canadian, Network determines which level of assessment is required for COA's Service Sections. The assessment elements of the Matrix can be tailored according to the needs of specific individuals or service design.

Interpretation: Youth who have been the victims of human-trafficking will oftentimes have severe deficiencies in their educational, emotional, and physical development in addition to any serious emotional disturbance or behavioral issues they may be struggling with. If at any time during the assessment it becomes apparent that the youth has been a victim of human trafficking, particular attention should be placed in those areas.

Research Note: Personnel that conduct initial and comprehensive assessment should be aware of the indicators of a potential victim of human trafficking. Several tools are available to help identify a potential victim and determine next steps toward an appropriate course of treatment. Examples of these tools include, but are not limited to, the Rapid Screening Tool for Child Trafficking and the Comprehensive Screening and Safety Tool for Child Trafficking.

Research Note: For an assessment to be trauma-informed, it assumes that every individual has likely been exposed to experiences that are traumatic, including abuse (physical, psychological, or sexual), neglect, out-of-home placements, exposure to community or familial violence, or persistent stress. Adopting this assumption in all levels of treatment ensures the agency actively avoids instances that traumatize the youth.

Research Note: All youth and families have areas of strength and resilience. Staff should engage youth and their families in an open and safe dialogue about their strengths, struggles, fears, and experiences during the assessment process to ensure that youth and their families are the focus of treatment efforts. Comprehensive assessment that guides effective service planning will be best achieved when families are engaged as partners in identifying their strengths and needs.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

PA-YPS 3.01

Personnel who conduct assessments are qualified by training, skill, and experience and able to recognize youth and families with special needs.

PA-YPS 3.02

The information gathered for assessments is strengths-based, comprehensive, directed at concerns identified in the initial screening by the youth and primary caregiver, and limited to material for meeting service requests and objectives.

Research Note: Literature suggests that involving the youth in the assessment process increases ownership of the assessment. To facilitate such involvement personnel should be familiar with skills such as orienting, giving instructions, requesting information, demonstrating understanding, and the ability to develop a trusting relationship.

PA-YPS 3.03

Individuals are assessed for:

- a. a history and presence of emotional and behavioral problems, substance use and other health conditions;
- b. educational history;
- c. traumatic experiences and trauma-related symptomatology;
- d. past or present connection to the juvenile justice system;

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

- e. medical history, including past medication prescription and efficacy;
- f. life skills and community support; and
- g. resource needs of the family.

Interpretation: The assessment includes use of standardized diagnostic tools such as the current Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders of the American Psychiatric Association, the International Statistical Classification of Diseases and Related Health Problems (ICD), or another comparable standardized diagnostic tool. Assessments are completed within timeframes established by the agency and updated periodically.

Research Note: Researchers suggest that focusing on a youth and their family's strengths, learning about the family culture, and building on natural supports is a more effective approach than focusing on the youth and family's deficits.

Research Note: The literature on promoting resiliency in youth emphasizes the importance of building healthy relationships with adults within their community, often times being cited as a "turning point" that helps them to develop resilience.

PA-YPS 3.04

Assessments are conducted in a culturally responsive manner to identify resources that can increase service participation and support the achievement of agreed upon goals.

Interpretation: Culturally responsive assessments can include attention to geographic location, language of choice, the person's religious, racial, ethnic, and cultural background, age, sexual orientation, gender identity, gender expression, and developmental level.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

PA-YPS 4: Service Plan

Youth participate in the development and ongoing review of a service plan that supports:

- a. the attainment of agreed upon goals;
- b. improvement in the person's quality of life and ability to manage within the community; and
- c. development of desired skills.

Interpretation: If the person is receiving services from any programs from within the agency or outside agencies, the service plan may be part of the overall service plan.

Interpretation: The six general service sectors accessed by youth are: specialty mental health, substance use treatment, education, child welfare, general medicine, and juvenile justice. Besides the services being provided by the program, there should be documentation of any other service sectors that are being accessed by the youth.

Interpretation: The wraparound approach is a service planning philosophy for youth in need of psychosocial rehabilitation, collaborating with all service providers that touch the youth's life (educational, justice, family services, etc.) to create a single plan that works with youth and their family to promote positive outcomes. While it is not necessary to use Wraparound services when providing psychosocial rehabilitation to youth, the research supports that participation in Wraparound services sustains youths' ongoing participation in services.

Research Note: The literature on service planning for youth supports the efficacy of a singular plan as promoted by the Wraparound approach.

The service plan is:

- a. based on the strengths and needs identified in the assessment;
- b. developed in a timely manner with the full participation of the youth and their family/primary caregiver; and
- c. expedited when crisis or urgent need is identified.

Interpretation: Service planning is conducted so that the youth retains as much personal responsibility and self-determination as possible and desired. Individuals with limited ability in making independent choices receive help with making or learning to make decisions.

Interpretation: Family members should always be included in the service planning when appropriate, as determined by the youth and primary caregiver. If the youth and primary caregiver agree that it is not appropriate, it should be documented as such.

Interpretation: If the youth has been identified as a victim of human trafficking, the agency should work with the youth and their primary caregiver to develop a safety plan that focuses on increasing physical safety by securing needed documents, property, and services and linking efficiently to law enforcement, if needed.

Research Note: The literature supports that the more 'choice and voice' the youth feels they have in their service plan, the more likely that they will feel engaged in their treatment resulting in positive outcomes.

PA-YPS 4.02

The youth, family members, and personnel collaboratively develop a written, individualized service plan that is based on the assessment and supports:

The service plan, includes:

- a. agreed upon goals, desired outcomes, and timeframes for achieving them;
- b. services and supports to be provided, and by whom; and
- c. the youth's signature.

Research Note: The resiliency framework suggests that when looking at outcomes and treatment goals, it is important to look at not only emotional or behavioral disturbances, but to also examine strengths and when the youth has used them to protect against adversity. For example, this is used through the Personal Model of Resilience where therapists and youth identify assets in the individual's life (such as being good at sports, making friends easily, etc.) and then look at situations in which the strength has been used to overcome an obstacle.

PA-YPS 4.06

The worker and a supervisor, or a clinical, service, or peer team, review the service plan at least quarterly, or as frequently as deemed necessary by the service provider and supervisor, to assess:

- a. service plan implementation;
- b. progress toward achieving service goals and desired outcomes; and
- c. the continuing appropriateness of the service goals.

Interpretation: Experienced workers may conduct reviews of their own cases. In such cases, the worker's supervisor reviews a sample of the worker's evaluations as per the requirements of the standard.

Interpretation: Timeframes for service plan reviews should be adjusted depending upon: issues and needs of the youth; changes in the youth's life situations or psychological conditions; and frequency and intensity of services provided.

PA-YPS 4.07

The worker, primary caregiver, and youth regularly review progress toward achievement of agreed upon goals and sign revisions to service goals and plans.

PA-YPS 4.08

Family members, as appropriate, are advised of ongoing progress and invited to participate in case conferences.

PA-YPS 5: Rehabilitation Team

The rehabilitation team consists of personnel that represent each sector providing services to the youth as well as the youth themselves, the primary caregiver, and any appropriate family members or natural supports.

Interpretation: Wraparound services are a holistic form of service planning that includes all individuals relevant to the well-being of the youth (family members, primary caregivers, other natural supports, service providers, etc.) working collaboratively. Wraparound programs may not always provide direct services, but act as a coordinator between all of the various other providers.

PA-YPS 5.01

The rehabilitation team, with input from the youth and primary caregiver, coordinates services with specialty mental health, substance use treatment, education, child welfare, primary health care, and juvenile justice, as appropriate.

Research Note: The research shows that the creation of one plan among multiple service providers with related goals leads to a higher likelihood of more successful outcomes (e.g., decreased placement in more restrictive environments).

Note: If the agency does not provide any of the services listed above, such

Purpose

Youth Psychosocial Services

as may be the case for Wraparound programs, then it is formally documented how those youth's needs are being met. If the services are not necessary for the youth (e.g., they are not involved with juvenile justice at all), there is documentation that the youth was assessed for those needs and it was determined unnecessary.

PA-YPS 5.02

A lead worker will serve as the primary point of contact for the youth and family in the service planning process, ensuring to include:

- a. performing a strengths-based assessment;
- b. conducting plan-of-care meeting;
- c. helping to determine needs and resources;
- d. arranging for provision of specific services; and
- e. monitoring implementation of the Service Plan.

Interpretation: A point of contact may have a different title from agency to agency; Wraparound programs would refer to this individual as the care coordinator.

PA-YPS 5.03

The wraparound care coordination team includes a care coordinator, personnel providing services from each sector, the youth, the child and family team, a mobile crisis team, and a provider network.

NA The agency does not provide wraparound services.

Note: If the agency does not provide the service, it should be noted which organization does provide it and the name of the primary contact from that organization. If the youth does not need support in that service sector, it should be noted that the youth was evaluated and the service was deemed unnecessary.

PA-YPS 5.04

The child and family team consists of the youth and, in addition to the primary caregiver, all adults and family members that play a positive role in the youth's life as well as provide natural community support.

Interpretation: Child and family teams often include a family support partner (also referred to as a family support specialist) who is a parent who has had similar experiences with their own family and as a result has an understanding of the various systems and is able to provide support to the other adults to help them find their voice.

Youth Psychosocial Services

NA The agency does not provide wraparound services.

PA-YPS 5.05

A mobile crisis team that includes psychologists and social workers trained in crisis intervention is available to meet the needs of youth and families in the absence of the lead worker.

Interpretation: If a mobile crisis team is not readily available from the agency's resources, a third party (such as a crisis hotline) - as permitted by state regulation -- can be contracted to provide assistance during a crisis. Youth and their primary caregivers are made aware of how to utilize the resource prior to a crisis situation.

NA The agency does not provide wraparound services.

Note: An example of when a mobile crisis team may be of use is when reviewing a potential inpatient psychiatric hospitalization of a youth and the care coordinator is not available.

PA-YPS 5.06

The agency creates a provider network by cultivating a relationship with an array of service providers to help support the youth and family's needs.

Research Note: The research on Wraparound programs shows positive outcomes with a diverse array of service providers within the agency's network. It increases the choices families have when selecting providers and the services they wish to receive.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

PA-YPS 6: Psychosocial Interventions

The program encourages youth to achieve their highest level of functioning by addressing specific emotional or behavioral needs and helping them to enhance coping skills.

Rating Indicators

1) Full Implementation, Outstanding Performance

A rating of (1) indicates that the agency's practices fully meet the standard and reflect a high level of capacity.

- All elements or requirements outlined in the standard are evident in practice, with rare or no exceptions; exceptions do not impact service quality or agency performance.

2) Substantial Implementation, Good Performance

A rating of (2) indicates that an agency's infrastructure and practices are basically sound but there is room for improvement.

- The majority of the standards requirements have been met and the basic framework required by the standard has been implemented.
- Minor inconsistencies and not yet fully developed practices are noted; however, these do not significantly impact service quality or agency performance.

3) Partial Implementation, Concerning Performance

A rating of (3) indicates that the agency's observed infrastructure and/or practices require significant improvement.

- The agency has not implemented the basic framework of the standard but instead has in place only part of this framework.
- Omissions or exceptions to the practices outlined in the standard occur regularly, or practices are implemented in a cursory or haphazard manner.
- Service quality or agency functioning may be compromised.
- Capacity is at a basic level.

4) Unsatisfactory Implementation or Performance

A rating of (4) indicates that implementation of the standard is minimal or there is no evidence of implementation at all.

- The agency's observed service delivery infrastructure and practices are weak or non-existent; or show signs of neglect, stagnation, or deterioration.
- Please see Rating Guidance for additional rating examples.

PA-YPS 6.01

The program offers at least two of the following services:

- a. counseling or supportive therapy;
- b. peer support;
- c. case management;
- d. community-based activities; and
- e. recreational activities.

Interpretation: If the agency primarily acts as a coordinator rather than as a provider, as might be the case for Wraparound services, then they should document which of the services are provided by the partnering agencies.

Interpretation: Counseling or supportive therapies include, but are not limited to:

- a. individual supportive therapy;
- b. group therapy; and
- c. family therapy.

Note: Youth Psychosocial Rehabilitation Programs may provide any combination of at least two of these services.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Note: Youth Psychosocial Rehabilitation Programs may provide any combination of at least two of these services.

?Note: Agencies should consult local regulations in regards to services licensure before identifying which services they choose to use.

PA-YPS 6.02

The program works with youth to identify and use natural resources and peer support to create a supportive community.

Research Note: The research indicates that strength focused interventions make an inventory of both internal resources (e.g., self-efficacy) and external resources (e.g., social support) as assets to be utilized in treatment. Using strengths and resources is a key factor when building resilience in youth.

PA-YPS 6.03

Core service components focus on helping youth improve and manage the quality of their lives through:

- a. development of self-care and activities of daily living skills, such as personal hygiene and nutrition;
- b. medication compliance and an understanding of how to manage their illness/condition;
- c. socialization and use of leisure time;
- d. organizational skills management;
- e. anger management;
- f. coping skills;
- g. conflict skill training; and
- h. vocational and/or educational development, depending on the age of the youth.

Research Note: Research has suggested that psychoeducation and skills training lead to acquisition of targeted skills, and are associated with reduced relapse, improved social functioning, decreased family stress and reduced placements for youth in the child welfare system.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

PA-YPS 6.04

The program offers youth a variety of opportunities to achieve service goals through individual, group, and/or milieu activities within a culturally sensitive framework that allows each individual to:

- a. learn how to relate positively to others;
- b. anticipate and control behaviors that interfere with inclusion in the community;
- c. experience peer support and feedback;
- d. develop personal awareness and boundaries;
- e. engage in positive problem solving methods;
- f. build on strengths and enhance self-reliance and productivity; and
- g. celebrate competence and success.

(FP) PA-YPS 6.05

The agency directly provides, coordinates, or formally arranges for:

- a. 24-hour crisis intervention;
- b. crisis residential and other emergency services;
- c. inpatient and outpatient psychiatric services;
- d. medical and dental services;
- e. medication management;
- f. integrated mental health and substance use education and services;
- g. education-related services and assistance;
- h. employment and life skills training; and
- i. legal advocacy and representation.

Research Note: Collaboration between agencies and settings can help improve the community functioning of youth with emotional disturbances and behavioral problems and lead to more successful outcomes, including needing less restrictive environments.

(FP) PA-YPS 6.06

Youth and their primary caregivers work with the service provider to create a crisis or safety management plan that addresses ways to prevent escalation of youth's behavior and identify steps to take in the event of a crisis.

arise, the youth and their care providers can work together to be proactive in handling escalating problem behaviors and promote the youth's strengths in their service planning.

PA-YPS 6.07

The families or primary caregivers of youth are offered or referred to services, including:

- a. family psychoeducation;
- b. emotional support and therapy;
- c. linkage to community services;
- d. self-help referrals; and
- e. care coordination, as needed.

Research Note: Studies of psychoeducation services provided to families consistently show positive outcomes for the youth, including reduced relapse, decreased psychiatric symptoms, and increased self-efficacy.

PA-YPS 6.08

The agency provides most of its services in the community.

Research Note: Literature points to the importance of providing services in the community regardless of the program approach, including skills building, peer support, vocational services, and consumer community resource development.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

PA-YPS 7: Social and Community Connections

Youth cultivate and sustain connections with their community and social support network to promote positive well-being.

Research Notes: Youth engagement with positive social and cultural interests through community-based programs is important in the promotion of healthy physical, intellectual, and psychological development.

PA-YPS 7.01

The agency facilitates the youth's ability to access all available services and successfully reintegrate into their community by:

- a. remaining knowledgeable about local, regional, and state resources, including networking and leadership opportunities; and
- b. identifying and developing opportunities for youth to develop positive ties to the community based on mutual interests and abilities.

PA-YPS 7.02

Social and community connections are encouraged by providing youth opportunities to participate in:

- a. social, recreational, educational, or vocational activities in their community;
- b. religious observances in the faith group or spirituality of choice; and
- c. family and neighborhood activities consistent with the youth's ethnic and cultural heritage and tribal affiliation.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

Interpretation: If the program does not directly facilitate participation in these social and community connections, then they make these events known to the youth and their families.

Research Note: The research suggests that engaging youth in community-based activities promotes resiliency and healthy development through the creation of prosocial peer support groups.

PA-YPS 7.03

Youth are helped to develop social support networks and build healthy, meaningful relationships with caring individuals of their choosing.

Interpretation: "Caring individuals" may include mentors, community members, friends, classmates, peers, siblings, cousins, grandparents, former resource families, and extended family members.

Research Note: Research shows that healthy relationships with caring individuals is a protective factor and promotes resiliency.

PA-YPS 7.04

Youth have opportunities to participate in group activities where they can meet, support, and share experiences with peers.

Interpretation: Opportunities to participate in culturally and developmentally appropriate social, cultural, recreational, and religious or spiritual activities should be designed to expand the range of life experiences.

Research Note: Developing positive peer relationships can help sustain the positive changes in behavior psychosocial rehabilitation programs aim to create and act as a protective measure against future substance abuse and other dysfunctional behaviors.

PA-YPS 7.05

The agency encourages social and community integration through the development of life skills necessary to:

- a. navigate the surrounding environment;
- b. pursue educational and occupational opportunities;
- c. manage finances, if age appropriate;
- d. communicate effectively and resolve conflicts; and
- e. participate in recreational activities and/or hobbies.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

Interpretation: Agencies should tailor life skills training to meet the age and developmental level of the youth being served.

PA-YPS 7.06

Policy prohibits exploitation of youth in employment-related training or gainful employment.

Interpretation: The agency should make reasonable efforts to match training and employment opportunities to the goals and interests of individuals.

NA The agency does not provide employment-related training or jobs to youth.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Upon case closing, the agency notifies any collaborating service providers, including the courts, as appropriate.

PA-YPS 8.03

When a youth's third-party benefits or payments end, the agency determines its responsibility to provide services until appropriate arrangements are made and, if termination or withdrawal of service is probable due to non-payment, the agency works with the person to identify other service options.

Purpose

Youth participating in Psychosocial Services (PA-YPS) receive community based services that facilitate childhood development and resiliency using a holistic approach that improves family functioning and increases child well-being and safety.

Youth Psychosocial Services

Interpretation: The agency must determine on a case-by-case basis its responsibility to continue providing services to persons whose third-party benefits have ended and who are in critical situations.

NA The agency does not receive third-party benefits or payments for service.

PA-YPS 8.04

If a youth is asked to leave the program, the agency makes every effort to link the individual with appropriate services.
